

Types of Trusts Offered by Life Enrichment Trust, Inc. (LET)¹

This table provides a comparison of the different types of trusts offered by LET. It is the mission of LET to serve as a court-approved corporate fiduciary for individuals with disabilities by protecting the assets of beneficiaries, preserving their eligibility for services, and enriching their lives. To learn more about LET, please see our contact information below the table.

Category	Pooled Special Needs Trusts	Self-Settled "Payback" Special Needs Trusts	Third-Party Special Needs Trust	Asset Protection Trusts	Minor's Trusts	Educational Trusts
Settlor² (Examples)	Individual, parent or grandparent, guardian, court	Individual, parent or grandparent, guardian, court	Any competent adult other than beneficiary; often created by will as part of an estate plan	Individual, court, or third party	Court or adult third party; often parent or guardian	Typically an educational institution
Funding Source (Examples)	Assets of beneficiary	Assets of beneficiary	Assets of someone other than beneficiary	Assets of beneficiary or third party	Commonly, assets derived from a settlement of litigation	Assets of settlor
Permitted Use of Trust Funds (Examples)	Supplemental needs of beneficiary subject to regulations governing means-tested government benefits programs	Supplemental needs of beneficiary subject to regulations governing means-tested government benefits programs	Supplemental needs of beneficiary subject to regulations governing means-tested government benefits programs	Goods and services necessary for beneficiary's personal needs, including food, shelter, health care, transportation, and travel	Goods and services necessary for beneficiary's personal needs, including food, shelter, health care, transportation, and travel	Educational programing and related goods and services

¹ Please note that each beneficiary's circumstances are different, and there are a variety of differences across trust types and individual-specific considerations. The descriptions within this table are displayed for the purposes of a general, high-level overview only.

² The settlor is the individual or entity establishing the trust.

Contact Us

Life Enrichment Trust Corporate Office
163 Thorn Hill Road
Warrendale, PA 15086

Website: lifeenrichmenttrust.org

Email: info@lifeenrichmenttrust.org

Phone: 855-398-7878